

Hello, Absolute Yachts 50 Fly

The Italian yachtbuilder calls the Absolute Yachts 50 Fly its ‘absolute achievement.’

By Yachting Staff | October 16, 2020

Hull-side windows flank the Absolute 50 Fly's amidships master and forepeak VIP bringing in natural light and enhancing the staterooms' sense of volume. Courtesy Absolute Yachts

Absolute Yachts in Italy calls the 50 Fly its “absolute achievement” in terms of size, comfort and livability.

The design of the 50 Fly includes uninterrupted windows for broad views of the surrounding sea. The cockpit can connect directly to the galley, where a sofa becomes a sun lounger. Up on the flybridge, guests will find a table, seating, sun loungers and more. An additional sunbathing area is at the bow, accessed via a protected walkway.

Also on the Absolute 50 Fly are practical features for extended cruising. Furniture on the main deck is designed to create additional stowage. New air conditioning systems also should enhance the onboard experience during longer cruises.

Accommodations include a full-beam (14'6"), ensuite master stateroom in the center of the yacht, which is the location that usually has the most comfortable motion at sea. There are no pillars in this stateroom's windows, allowing for wide views.

ADVERTISEMENT

There's also a full-beam, ensuite VIP stateroom. The third guest stateroom has a walk-in closet, and the crew cabin aft can be used for extra guests.

Owner-operators, take note: There is a side door near the helm on the Absolute 50 Fly. The door is a useful feature during docking and other maneuvers.

For more information, visit: absoluteyachts.com