

AFT ROOM WITH A VIEW ON NAVETTA 64

Absolute's upcoming Navetta 64 has the option of an interior Beach Club that can double as a cabin with the best view on the boat.

Absolute is preparing to launch one of its most innovative models yet, with the upcoming Navetta 64 offering an optional interior 'Beach Club', where a sofa can convert into a double bed. The new model sits between the 58 and 68 in the Navetta range, and hull one is expected to be ready by the end of August.

The 64's standard transom has two windows and a pantograph door, as on other Navettas. However, the optional 'Beach Club' offers a full-windowed transom, with two sliding doors flanked by two fixed doors. As well as a clear sea view, the room has a convertible sofa-cum-bed, two wardrobes, air cooling system, stereo, fridge, head and shower. Further forward, the lower deck has a portside VIP double and starboard twin midships, and a full-beam owner's suite forward, featuring a large bathroom in the bow with windows on both sides.

Cesare Mastroianni, Absolute's Chief Commercial Officer, said: "For the owner's cabin, we have reiterated the solution adopted on Navetta 68 and 73. The bow position has allowed us to provide huge windows that give an incomparable view of the sea but also a quietness and absolute privacy compared to the owner's cabins of any other 64-footer."

Aft of the twin cabin on starboard side is a crew cabin with a single bed and an optional fold-out Pullman bunk.

The main-deck interior features an aft galley to port, with a dining table and sofa to starboard, while forward is the main lounging area and a raised twin-seat helm station. The foredeck has a forward-facing C-shaped coach, table and adjustable triple sunpad.

The flybridge has a central helm seat flanked by L-shaped sofas, while in the central area, a wet bar to port is opposite an aft-facing sofa and table. This entire forward area of the flybridge can be enclosed. Engine options are twin Volvo Penta D13 IPS1200s or IPS1350s.

Dealer Absolute Marine, founded by Thomas Woo, revealed that an Absolute 47 Fly, a model launched at Cannes last year, is expected to arrive in Hong Kong in July, while other upcoming arrivals in the city include a Navetta 58 and a flagship Navetta 73. ☞
